20	Over Vienna	Doug Ward	The image of the ferris wheel has nice colour separation, but unfortunately the background is intruding on the foreground; the maker could give us a little shallower dof. The most interesting part of the photo is the middle; I would cut one third off the left and one third off the right, and make it a vertical.	J

22	Beach Bum	Gail Maclellan	It looks like the maker used a painterly effect. I would have liked to see the bird's face, especially the eye. A nice balance to the image with the bird offset.	I
21	Face on a Train	John Todd		J	HM
24	Boat House	Karen Cunningham	It's a colourful capture; quite well exposed for an indoor shot. Lots in the image; move in to show less; the lobster trap and jacket could be a separate image; the barrels could be an image itself; the wall breaks the photo up; still a pleasing image	I	HM

23	Jolanta	Ted Buck	It's an interesting position; it adds drama; good clarity on the face; having face in 1/3 enhanced the photo. The background colour matches her face; highlights are a bit distracting; remove the lamp.	I	HM
23	Man in White	Kathy Ward	This is an interesting overall technique -- reminds me of shabby chic; the detail is very well handled in the image.	M

21	Sit and Think	Annika Buchner	It's nicely placed in the picture space; there is a diagonal in the photo; good placement; the distraction is the brightness behind her with the pillar shadow; without that it would be a better photo.	J	HM

22	Focus	Nicolette Wain-Lowe	Action shots are sometimes difficult -- the focus is on his back, it would be better if it was his face; the spray is good; the focus is good, and the dof is fairly well done. The white line on the right hand side should be moved; could remove the bright white spots that are distracting.	I

21	Scottish Highland Shepherd at Work	Elaine Atkins	This image definitely tells a story -- the dogs all in a row, waiting for sheep to get out; having a little more dof on the sheep because they are an intergral part of the story would help.	J	HM
